The browser is probably automatically escaping the characters you have in your file (which is what you see in your question). If you see the characters unescaped, you probably have an HTML document (and not plain text) saved locally. For example, if you download a Word document and save it locally as a plain text document (e.g. DOC), it will display as "?:". Francis Mannion Francis Mannion (12 November 1913 – 7 May 2008) was an English association football player. He played professionally in England for Bolton Wanderers, Port Vale and Crewe Alexandra. He joined Port Vale in July 1939 and featured in seven Third Division North games in the 1939–40 season, before joining Crewe the following season. He helped the club to a fourth-placed finish in the Football League South in 1946–47, then finished as joint top scorer with Jimmy Walker with 17 goals in the 1947–48 season. He played 20 Third Division South games in the 1948–49 campaign, as the "Railwaymen" finished bottom of the table. He later played non-league football for Team North
