v.1.43.7.49 (ENG-RUS) [L] The Chosen Few.Development and validation of a questionnaire to measure "significant change in behavior" in mental health consumers. The development of a measure of significant change in behavior in a clinical population of mental health consumers was reported. Psychometric evaluation of the new measure, the CH-Behavioral Change, was completed by factor analysis of the results of a postal survey of 106 consumers (86 percent of the eligible population). The significant factors extracted on the basis of the factor analysis results were identified as describing change in seven specific areas of behavior: self-care, insight, communication, contacts with others, follow-up contact with service providers, levels of self-care, and management of symptoms. The CH-Behavioral Change Questionnaire consists of six questions asking subjects to respond to scenarios describing their most significant behavioral changes over the previous month. Questions designed to measure the effects of treatment, and change in relationships with significant others, are also included. The internal consistency of the CH-Behavioral Change Questionnaire and its subscales was evaluated using Cronbach's alpha. The alpha values for the CH-Behavioral Change Questionnaire and the self-care subscale were satisfactory, while the alpha values for the communication subscale were not. The questionnaire's potential for use in evaluating the impact of behavior change programs was demonstrated by its ability to discriminate between subjects whose behavior had changed most and subjects whose behavior had changed least. Since that happened, I've just set up my Google Webmaster Tools account and it works perfectly. VigLink does quite a lot to convert your links, but if you're not seeing any improvement I'd look at your accounts on Google Webmaster Tools to make sure the
