War and Peace 7. 2018-10-26 10:03:08 +0000 This is the Windows 7 theme I am trying to replicate for Windows 10. I am not a programmer, I just wanted to try it out. I downloaded the windows 7 theme zip file and installed it on Windows 10. I think the NASA theme should have the same functionality that it does in Windows 7, in my Windows 10 theme. Can someone please help me on how to do this? Thank you. A: If you want to copy the whole content of the theme folder from a Windows 7 to your Windows 10, you can use 7Zip. Open your theme and make sure that you can see all the contents in it. (If you can't, you have copied the theme to a wrong directory or the theme is corrupt. If you still can't, try to download the zip from the Windows site.) 7Zip -> Open the theme -> Extract the theme.zip file. Delete all the files in the theme directory, except the theme.inf file. Open 7Zip -> Open the theme.inf file and copy the content of the theme directory to your theme.inf file. Close 7Zip. Open the Explorer and rename your theme.inf file to theme.inf. Change the theme folder to your Windows theme folder. Q: How to set the default value in a combobox? I'm new in C#. I want to know how can I set the default value in my combobox. A: In general, you should not do this because it is liable to cause unexpected behavior. The Value property of a ComboBox is read-only. If you set its value, this will be immediately reflected in the SelectedItem, but if you also set the value of the SelectedItem, that will in turn be set to the new value of the ComboBox. You will end up having a sort of infinite recursion loop. If you absolutely need a default value for the ComboBox, you can use the constructor: `ComboBox (UInt32 initialValue)` Or set the SelectedValue property: `Com 2d92ce491b`
