KEYMACRO is a simple software, that can be used to modify the functionality of mechanical keyboard. The software allows you to assign different macros to different keys, while you are able to choose and use a different macro. The main page of the software has a few options that will help you to configure the software and start using it. This tool gives you the opportunity to have a 2-axis gyroscope as it can be set up to alert or display some or all of the following 1. Indicates the pitch and yaw angles of the phone relative to the pitch and yaw angles of the user. 2. Option for quick and easy app switching (yes, we've already told you we have a TabSwitcher application you can use to do it, right? Right?!) 3. Snapshots of the user's orientation in space. When used, this could give you the ability to find and mount your phone in a strange place, to pick it up and show it to a friend, or to navigate to a new location that the user is not familiar with. 4. Ability to find the user's location. This is based on the accelerometer and also GPS. 5. Ability to bring up a map or to access directions. 6. Option for turning the device on and off. 7. Option for accessing the notifications screen, allowing you to see which notifications have been missed. This is done via an onscreen key press. 8. The ability to start a call or change the current call to another. 9. Option for changing the phone's display brightness to the user's preference. 10. Ability to quickly mute the mic on/off and control the volume. 11. The ability to quickly set the volume to the user's preference. 12. Ability to change the user's ringtone to a different one, or silence it altogether. 13. The ability to access voice/keyboard commands and allow the user to make quick phone calls. 14. Ability to access the settings screen or to receive a text message. 15. The ability to change the user's language settings. 16. Option to save the user's preferred setting. 17. The ability to change the user's font size to the preference. 18. The ability to change the user's text message reply format. How does it work? 1d6a3396d6
