[wp_ad_camp_2]Tubal patency among infertility patients: results of a cross-sectional comparative study. Impaired fallopian tube function is one of the major causes of female infertility. Tubal occlusion is directly related to tubal patency and, therefore, tubal occlusion is assumed to be a cause of tubal infertility. In the present study, we investigated prevalence of bilateral tubal patency and unilateral tubal patency among infertility patients. A total of 145 women with female primary infertility were included in this cross-sectional comparative study and were examined by hysterosalpingography. Bilateral and unilateral tubal patency was detected in 8.3 and 26.2% of infertile women, respectively. However, bilateral patency in infertile women with normal menstrual cycles was higher than that of infertile women with abnormal menstrual cycles. We concluded that normal female reproductive function might be associated with the presence of bilateral tubal patency. Q: Как правильно создать свой вложенный класс? Вот есть класс 1. Как мне вставить в него объект Class 2? A: Например: `Class 1 { Class 2 class2; }` new Trepp 2.0 update also brings the full Windows Store support along with the new Windows 10 UI. All in all, it is a solid piece of software, but some minor problems and quirks get in the way, taking away from its usability. What's new This version of Trepp doesn't mark a major upgrade as its predecessor did. Instead, it adds the full Windows Store support, along with some of the new Windows 10 UI improvements. This notably includes the Settings app, various other app info, and its new Volume and Display options. Apart from that, this version of the app is a bit lighter than the previous version. As such, it is able to reduce the required RAM from 3.0 GB to 2.2 GB. Of course, this makes the app a little bit less resource-hungry, although it adds some pretty serious tweaks in the form of a button to quickly save and restore your original layout and shortcuts. Highlights The Windows Store is now fully supported by Trepp 2.0, along with both the new universal Windows design and the new Windows 10 UI. This is a large improvement over the previous version, and with the new Windows Store support, the number of apps and services available is bound to grow. In terms of gaming, the visual design offers a variety of improvements. First of all, the icon pack now uses an in-between gradient, which is a lot
