A Tutku Yazilim Alis Satis Stok Takip V5 3 6 Full Versiyon.Q: Comparing using lower() on column's data in pandas I'm trying to find the difference in data I have using the date column 'date'. I want to display the difference between the number of sales and marketing. The sales column indicates the date sold the product and the marketing column indicates the date when a specific push was initiated. If a sales value was greater than a marketing value I would want to display 1. I've come up with this code: perf_data = perf_df.groupby('ID')['revenue'].diff().apply(lambda r: r>=0).astype(float).astype(int) diff_sales = (perf_data.sales.diff().fillna(0).astype(int)).groupby([pd.Grouper(key='ID', freq='D'), 'date']).sum().astype(float) diff_marketing = (perf_data.marketing.diff().fillna(0).astype(int)).groupby([pd.Grouper(key='ID', freq='D'), 'date']).sum().astype(float) if diff_sales>diff_marketing: print('sales came out ahead') else: print('marketing came out ahead')
