A boat ride featuring Niko Bellic, a secret immigrant who arrives in Liberty City for his debut in Grand Theft Auto IV. He-Bo's last flight (episode "Bad Mission") - rocket launches from an amusement park in Idaho. The epilogue to Red State (2007) features a character best known for characters from the game series, including Harley Quinn, Billy Wright, and Cody Blade. A scene of a fight between Billy Wright and Harley appears in the fragment In the comic book series Yoshi's Fight, the protagonist Yose Cage and his robotic alien friend Buffy fail to stop a large metal arm from blowing away an elevator as Yoshi Cage takes it up. Since it was Yos who was the elevator operator, the Buffy robot considered Yos to be the boss. Cage is killed trying to free Buffy. The booklet for the game was titled "Buffalo Guts: The Last Brawl". The death scene of the protagonist in the Toys "R" Us commercial is repeated at the end of the game - in the same place at the same time. On the other hand, the character that replaces Yose Cage in the game was also in the comic. Also, players, having connected to the game, can see a fragment of the comic, where it is shown that Yos had a similar mutation before (see the Red State comic). Since 1992, Bullfrog Games has released numerous single-player and online games set in the Grand ThÃ©talon universe. The first game in the series, Gta - Micro Machines, was released for the Neo Geo 8 console in 1996. The next game, GTA - Gran Turismo, was released for the Nintendo 64 in 1998, under the name GTA: Trove for PC. After that, in 1999, Uncharted was released - the first multiplayer game at that time that did not require an Internet connection to the Internet. Under the control of the joystick, having only a small number of instructions, the player could not only achieve more, but also "travel" in a parallel world. Two years later, the second part of the series, Grand Thetalone, was released
