Enjoy OmmWriter Dāna I Copyright (C) 2008-2010 by Ivo Babic Version 1.0.5 (08-05-2010) VivaVideo Microsoft has a history of releasing excellent applications for the Mac OS. We've seen Sharepoint and Office 365. Many of us even see that Microsoft was preparing a program that would allow Windows users to play video on the Mac. This app is that program. It's called VivaVideo. VivaVideo is developed by the same team that created Lightworks, also a popular program in the video editing world. The interface is very similar to that of Lightworks. It's simple to navigate. You can import your videos from your hard drive into VivaVideo, edit them, and create your own video. You can even share your videos with others. This program also has a built-in help system. It tells you how to do all the basics such as trim, add special effects, or even add a watermark to your video. I tested this application on my Mac and I had a really good experience with it. I think most Mac users should be happy with the program. It's a program that costs $39.99, but it's worth every penny. Full Feature list VivaVideo Description: VivaVideo is the all-in-one video editing application for both Mac and Windows, delivering a powerful video editor with all the features you need for your videos. VivaVideo is the first editing application to embrace the power of OS X. Featuring a user interface designed specifically for the Mac, Viva
