"I've been working for over 20 years to educate the community about the harmful effects that GMO's have on our food supply, and how this affects our health" says Brian Burkart, a founder of ~ Our Children's Right to Know GMO's in Iowa. ~ Also, for those parents who have concerns about finding natural food options for their kids, there are many great options available including buying organic versions of traditional foods like peanut butter, oatmeal, and rice, or you could check out our recommended list of "GMO-free" foods and snacks here, by Brendan Nystedt Share this: Like this; Related One thought on "Don't Get Scammed by Toxic GMO" My husband and I have been eating GMO free for over 10 years. It is not hard to find it, I really don't see how "artificial" foods or foods with genetically modified ingredients is any different than regular foods, but I do remember when my 2 year old was diagnosed with celiac disease, my husband and I immediately began to buy more organics as we didn't know it was related to that condition. I remember being so scared that if we did eat GMO's that he would grow up with organ problems. We were making the switch to all organic and we still make the switch but now that our son is growing, we have to keep raising the same red flags and look for the facts. It is so hard to look for natural, organic and safe for your child when you are busy trying to provide them with the best. It is impossible to tell when it is safe or not to let your kids eat something, but I am going to stay doing everything I can to make sure we eat healthy and safe for our children as long as they live with us.C'est le premier événement parisien à récupérer le financement qu'offre la justice.
