Mobile App Design: 5 Steps to Success Designing a good mobile app may seem complicated at first, but if you can get started with the right development tips, you'll be able to successfully create an app that works on a variety of devices. Whether you're just beginning or you're an experienced developer, there are a few things to consider in order to create a successful mobile app. What to Do 1. Have a clear user experience design There is nothing more frustrating than designing the perfect app that no one wants. It's a good idea to think about user experience before beginning to design a mobile app. In order to have an app that works for your target audience, you need to first analyze the level of technical expertise that your target audience possesses. What makes your app unique? Ask your target audience what the features they want from the app are, what will interest them most, and how would they ideally like the app to look and feel. You'll find that if you're able to create an app that fits the needs and desires of your target audience, they will be more engaged with your app, so that you can build up a successful app. 2. Keep the design simple To make your app easy to understand and easy to use, you need to look into redesigning the app so that it is simple to use. There are various ways to do this, one of which is to utilize the affordances of the device. If you're designing for iPhone, the user can tap on the top right side of the screen to go back. This is an affordance that is built into the device. With the designs of old, you had to click on icons on your iPhone to go back. Now you can go back with just a tap of the screen and your app will look and feel much more intuitive. Another simple design tip is to use icons that are clear and easy to understand. If users have a hard time understanding your app, they will likely abandon it. If your design is complicated, it can frustrate the user and they will want to leave. If you're designing for Android, you can use the scroll bar which will take your user to the bottom of the screen. You can also use the actions that are available to users
