Tea-Tones Tea-Tones are a British band comprising two sisters, Noreen and Gillian Westwood and three sons – Richard, James and Cameron Westwood. Tea-Tones have been compared to The Beach Boys, The Beatles and Simon and Garfunkel. The Music World magazine commented that "this disc contains a charming set, with fine female vocals, a lot of breezy instrumentation and a melodic, slightly humorous melody". The band's second album, "The Best of Tea-Tones" (1986) was also a big success. In January 1988, Tea-Tones' first single, "Devil Woman", was released; it reached No.15 in the UK Singles Chart. Their third album, Closer to the Sun, released in May, had a higher-profile collaboration with Gerry Rafferty and Elton John, but this wasn't a success. The album was supported by several live concerts and successful singles, including "Tough Being Sweet", "How
